

Pompano – Wrecks

January 19-20, 2019

Price: $170 (air tanks included)

Come dive with us on the incredible wrecks of Pompano!

Saturday, January 19: We will meet at 1:00pm for a 1:30pm departure. A short boat ride will take us to the Mercedes and Hog Heaven wrecks. The Mercedes is a 194' freighter that lies in 97 feet of water. The wreckage is twisted in two pieces with large gaping holes. Despite the damage, it is still a great fish haven with a colorful history. Our second, shallower dive will be on Hog Heaven. The Hog Heaven Wreck is a mix of various items placed in an area over a span of three years. The main attraction of this wreck dive is the 180-foot Western Barge which was intentionally sunk on September 19, 1986 to become an artificial reef. The Hog Heaven Wreck flipped during its sinking and now rests upside down in 72 feet of water. It's full of life with schooling fish. In addition, sergeant majors, porkfish, grunts, angelfish and barracuda can be seen here, too.

Sunday, January 20: We will meet at 8:00am for an 8:30am departure. The first wreck dive will be on the RSB-1. A 160' long tender, the RSB-1 sits in 108 feet of water. Its tall structure on the wheelhouse creates a wonderful fish haven. Large schools of fish can be seen around the mast. Our second dive will be on the Okinawa. Sitting perfectly upright in 69 feet of water, this 107' Army tug was sunk as part of Pompano Beach's Shipwreck Park project. Boasting a magical mermaid sculpture and "dive bar" called the Midnight Sun, the Okinawa is a very exciting and unique wreck.

Trip price does not include lodging, transportation, boat crew gratuities or diving equipment (except for air tanks). Non-refundable unless cancelled by the dive center. Please call Gulfport Dive Center to pay and reserve your spot. 727-498-8702
